A special Sandook, or trunk, belonging to the spice route traders of Chettiyar community of Southern India, had beautiful metal hinges in a circular floral pattern that inspired the Sandook range. The simplest product in this range is a delicate bookmark with a silk tassel that doubles as a money clip. The circular floral pattern is repeated in the face of the bookend that doubles as a shelf. The Sandook motif anchors the scale that doubles as a bookmark. The pen stand, a filigree metal cup doubles as a candleholder.

Paying homage to the exquisite detailed woodwork in the architecture of the Raj this range of three paperweights, like the Sultan's, refuse to topple over because of their metal weighted bases. The Kha-radi community of wood-turners makes delicate spindles in Shisham wood. They have adapted their skills to produce these elegant paperweights for the Sultans of Style.
